| Three digits: the shortest way to spell passion. 1. Nothing sizzles quite like a 911. 2. The heart of a boxer, with six-cylinder appeal. 3. The key is sometimes found in the unexpected. 4. Renaissance: from art to science, the term describes the essence of what is modern. 5. 911 is what you get if you add up all of its features. 6. In soccer, jersey number 11 is traditionally worn by the winger on the outside left. In short, someone who attacks down the wings. 7. To quote Ferry Porsche: "The 911 is the only car that you can drive from an African safari to Le Mans, then off to the theater, and finally through the streets of New York." 8. Buy a sports car for its brake system? Sure, why not? 9. | 1. It's more than being able to accelerate from zero to 100; what truly matters is what happens next. 2. If you are going to pay underground parking fees, then do it for a worthy object. 3. Curves: there's nothing more beautiful (performance curves included). 4. In Chinese numerology, the number nine represents the dragon. 5. This is a game anyone can play: male or female, yin or yang. 6. Whenever the engine in the rear makes bubbling sounds, the driver knows what it is saying: I'm alive! 7. You don't just drive a Porsche. You give it your heart. 8. A bit of car philosophy from Austrian journalist Philipp Waldeck: "The old 911 transformed air into sparkling wine. The new 911 transforms water into champagne." 9. That hip swing is unmistakable. 10. Eleven is number one—twice. 11. Some needs are crucial. Others are compelling. |
